

Eastern U.S. facing possible power brownouts by December

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said today the eastern United States faces possible power brownouts by December because of the fuel crisis and said things could be even worse after the first of the year.

Morton said that petroleum supplies will be some eight per cent below current consumption by the end of the year. He said the shortage could jump to 20 per cent during the first quarter of 1974, substantially higher than previous official estimates.

In his energy message earlier this month, President Nixon estimated petroleum shortages might range between 10 and 17 per cent.

The United States currently consumes an estimated 17 million barrels of oil daily.

A deputy assistant secretary of Interior, Eric Zausner, said an increasing shortage of residual oil will leave many power plants so short of fuel, especially on the East Coast, that consumption of electrical power must be reduced 10 to 20 per cent.

Morton said such a reduction would be "a very difficult thing."

But, he said, "We may be in the brownout business if we don't do it."

Morton told newsmen at a briefing that shortages of residual oil will begin hurting, particularly in power plants, by early December.

Shortage of distillate oils — primarily home-heating oil and diesel and jet fuel — will hit late in January and gasoline shortages may begin showing up in early or mid-February, Morton said.

In their briefing today, Morton and Zausner also gave these details on the fuel situation:

The over-all petroleum shortage disguises even more crucial shortages concentrated in certain areas of the country and in certain fuels, with residual oil, a heavy fuel oil used largely in electric generators, presenting the most immediate and critical problem, Zausner said.

He said the nation uses about 3.6 million barrels of residual oil daily but will only get about 2.55 million barrels per day in the first quarter of next year.

That leaves a deficit of more than one million barrels a day, a 29 per cent shortage nationwide.

Zausner said the shortage is heavily concentrated in New England and the Middle Atlantic States. He could not say how high the residual shortage there might go but said there have been estimates that the East Coast may face a residual oil shortage of up to 50 per cent.

Zausner said it may be possible to produce more residual oil in refineries at the expense of gasoline production.

More oil could also be produced from the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve and from existing oilfields in Texas, he said.

These measures might yield up to 550,000 barrels per day of additional residual oil, but there has been no progress so far toward implementing any of them.

With scarcely one month to go before the residual shortage hits hard, Zausner was asked whether that deadline could be beaten and a residual emergency avoided if these measures began today.

"I can't answer that," he said.

Morton was unable to say when President Nixon might act on the recommendation from his Cabinet task force to close gasoline stations on Sundays.

Last Monday, the President's top energy adviser, John A. Love, told a newsmen an announcement of such action was expected the same day.

Another recommendation, to reduce the distribution of home heating oil 15 per cent below last year's levels "is on the verge of a decision," said Eli Reich, director of the mandatory fuel allocations program.

Morton said further mandatory fuel-saving measures could come as early as next week, once the House of Representatives completes action on legislation providing the President with emergency powers to deal with the fuel crisis.

Under consideration, Morton said, are a nationwide highway speed limit and reductions in unnecessary lighting, including decorative Christmas displays.

Bond calls special legislative session

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond called today for a special legislative session to begin at 2 p.m. Monday, Dec. 3.

Bond called for legislators to consider state reorganization, the energy crisis, reform of campaign financing laws, and formation of a special agency to enforce the campaign spending laws.

Bond also called for a separate measure to include expansion of the merit system, which now covers about half of the state's 55,000 employees.

In a proclamation, Bond said:

"I have called the first extra session at this time because it now appears that there is a general recognition among members of the General Assembly that certain matters are of such urgency that they cannot await an effective date of legislation which ordinarily under our Constitution would be 90 days after the end of the next regular session in April, 1974."

Bond said he thinks the House chamber, now undergoing renovation, will be ready for use by Dec. 10.

He said the condition of the chamber prevented him from calling the session earlier.

"Committee meetings and other preliminary matters, at the discretion of the legislature, can be dealt with prior to the availability of the House chamber," Bond said.

By law, the special session can run no longer than Feb. 1. Legislators have predicted it will overlap with the regular session beginning Jan. 9.

Bond issued these statements on the key issues:

"In addition to problems encountered in preparing budgets during the next regular session of the General Assembly for all agencies, divisions, boards and departments of the executive branch, there must be a transition period, including time for preparation of the changeover. For this reason, the earliest possible adoption of a reorganization plan is absolutely essential."

"Our national energy shortage is approaching a crisis stage which can be met without severe economic dislocation only if we adopt strong conservation measure immediately. I will expand the call with respect to additional energy matters after the Missouri Energy Council and the House Interim Committee on Energy meet and discuss means for reducing our extravagant consumption of energy."

Bond said he would call for reduction of the speed limit. He has said he favors a reduction to 60 miles an hour from the current 70, but his special session proclamation did not specify a speed limit.

"Campaign financing provisions must be acted upon in the special session rather than in the next regular session of the General Assembly in order to insure that they are in effect for all elections in 1974," Bond said.

"Without a special session and without an emergency clause on campaign financing laws, such provisions could not be law until after the primary elections and might not even be in final form at the close of the filing period in April, 1974. With the great public concern over problems of campaign financing, it is incumbent upon us to assure that sound measures for full disclosure of all campaign financing be made prior to each election and that there be realistic limitations on all campaign contributions and expenditures."

"We cannot afford to hold the August, 1974, primary elections without enactment of these important measures."

Bond vetoed a reorganization bill which he said did not streamline the government and did not give department directors enough authority to do their own hiring and firing.

Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, the Senate president pro tem, wrote Bond asking him not to call a session because it would interfere with the regular session starting Jan. 9. Budget hearings were to begin Dec. 10 if a special session did not occur. Also, the first of about 1,300 bills will be prefilled Dec. 3, the date most often being speculated as the date for the special session. Cason called Oct. 4 for a special session in October or November.

Sharp rise noted in consumer prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose sharply last month following September's slowdown, owing partly to the energy crisis and higher prices for fuel oil and gasoline, the government said today.

The Department of Labor reported that the cost of living climbed eight-tenths of one per cent in October and pushed consumer prices up 7.9 per cent above a year ago. It marked the largest jump in any 12-month period since the 8.7 per cent inflationary rate recorded in the June 1950-51 period at the start of the Korean War.

In addition to sharply higher prices for gasoline and fuel oil, rising costs for clothing, mortgage interest rates and health insurance contributed significantly to the October rise in prices, the government said.

A decline in meat and poultry prices was more than offset in the statistics by large increases in prices of restaurant meals and some food and some grocery store prices.

Food prices rose one-tenth of a per cent following a drop of seven-tenths of a per cent in September and a record 6 per cent jump in August. The increase was larger on a seasonally adjusted basis, increasing five-tenths of a per cent compared with a drop of one-tenth of a per cent on that basis on September.

Grocery prices actually declined three-tenths of a per cent but the drop was offset by a 1.8 per cent jump in food purchased away from home, including restaurant meals and snacks.

Poultry, egg and pork prices fell sharply again—as they did in September — and prices for beef and veal declined as well, but prices for most other food sold in grocery stores went up, the government said.

Prices for nonfood commodities jumped nine-tenths of one per cent, sharpest this year and the biggest jump since a one per cent increase in October 1970. Seasonally adjusted, the increase was five-tenths of a per cent. Services, including rents, mortgage payments and medical fees rose 1.1 per cent, an increase not equaled since March 1970.

The over-all rise in living costs last month followed a three-tenths of a per cent rise in September and the near-record jump of 1.8 per cent in August after the lifting of the government's price freeze.

Although food price increases have moderated, the price spurt in nonfood commodities and services appears to reflect an economy still gripped in inflation.

The consumer price index in October moved up to 136.6, meaning that it cost consumers $13.66 to purchase a variety of goods that cost $10 in the 1967 base period.

Committee to assist in school fund goals

A committee of local citizens has been named to assist the Sedalia Board of Education in determining specific elementary education goals that would be paid for by Emergency School Act (Title 7) funds which the board voted to apply for at its Nov. 13 meeting.

The announcement was made by school superintendent Dr. Allan Henningsen at a Wednesday morning press conference in his office.

Members of the committee are the Rev. Denis Craft, chairman; Mrs. Carl Yates, secretary; Harry Browder, Mrs. Bill Dey, Clyde Robinson, Mrs. Robert Edmonds, Mrs. Mary Nakurma and Marilyn Shepard.

The function of the group, Henningsen explained, will include reviewing and commenting on the Title 7 fund application and upon all subsequent activities funded by the moneys. They will also participate in an open hearing to be held prior to submission of the request.

As part of their continuous evaluation of funded programs, the committee would hold monthly meetings open to the public to review policy matters relating to the administration and operation of the project.

The board voted Nov. 13 to apply for the funds, which became available to the district for the first time this year because its school desegregation plan has been approved by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The existence of a minority student population also made the district eligible. It was reported.

Any funds received as a result of the application will be good for only the 1974-75 school year, Henningsen said.

In seeking the committee's help in determining the projects for which the requested funds will be used, school officials recently designed an "education needs survey" which listed a number of possible programs to be funded.

"We want the committee to study these suggestions and put them in some sort of priority order," Henningsen said. "We have also left plenty of space for committee members to make suggestions of their own which are not included in the survey."

Copies of the survey, Henningsen said, have been distributed to all district elementary teachers, board members, assistant superintendents Dr. Richard Kimble and P. A. Sillers and himself.

Rival Watergate prosecutor measures now go before Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A divided Senate Judiciary Committee reported to the Senate without recommendation today rival proposals for establishing a special Watergate prosecutor by law.

One of the bills, designed to remove the prosecutor from executive branch control, provides for appointment by a three-judge panel of the U.S. District Court here.

The other bill, reported as having Nixon administration endorsement, provides for appointment by the attorney general and would give either the Senate or the House a veto over the prosecutor's removal.

The rival measures now go to the Senate where they may be brought up after Congress returns from its Thanksgiving Day recess.

The House Judiciary Committee already has approved a bill for a court-appointed prosecutor, but its chances of being passed by the House are regarded as highly uncertain.

Demands for legislation arose after the firing, on President Nixon's orders, of Archibald Cox on Oct. 20 as the special prosecutor.

Since then Leon Jaworski, a Houston, Tex., trial lawyer and a Democrat, has been appointed by Acting "Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork as Cox's successor."

Jaworski told the Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday that all of the investigations started by Cox have been carried on "without missing a beat."

One of the chief arguments raised against providing for a court-appointed prosecutor is that such legislation is of doubtful constitutionality and would delay and confuse the on-going investigation.

Sponsors of rival measures for Senate confirmation of the prosecutor said they assumed that under such legislation the president would nominate Jaworski.

During Jaworski's testimony before the Judiciary Committee Tuesday, the questions seemed to be based on the assumption that he would be continuing in the job.

"I am acting completely independently," Jaworski said. He testified he would not have accepted appointment without assurances that no restraints would be placed on his independence.

And he said he feels he has a binding charter that the President cannot fire him except with the consensus of the congressional leaders of both parties.

Jaworski also revealed that he has received White House assurances that he can listen to tapes and inspect documents to pass on claims of national security.

Jaworski said that none of his requests to the White House for documents has been turned down. However, none of the material has yet been furnished, he said.

Deadlock continues on cease-fire lines

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United Nations said today Egypt and Israel will finish their prisoner exchange on schedule, but the two nations remained deadlocked on establishing cease-fire lines along the Suez Canal.

The end of the prisoner airlift between Cairo and Tel Aviv will coincide with resumption of talks Thursday aimed at resolving the cease-fire line issue, the U.N. spokesman in Cairo said.

Negotiators for the two countries will meet again Thursday on the Cairo-Suez train in an effort to resolve what has been described as the last stumbling block in implementation of the six-point Middle East cease-fire agreement.

Egypt has demanded that Israeli forces return to where they were on Oct. 22 when the first U.N. cease-fire went into effect. During fighting for two days after that, Israeli forces expanded their positions on the western bank of the canal, completed the cutoff of the Egyptian 3rd Army and entered the city of Suez.

Although Egypt has submitted a map purporting to show Israeli positions on Oct. 22, the Israeli government has claimed that the Oct. 22 lines are impossible to determine. Instead, Israel has suggested that both sides return to their respective banks of the canal and allow for a six-mile demilitarized zone on each side.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said the Egyptian government "irrevocably rejected" the Israeli proposal Monday, but said the Thursday session would be "decisive."

Israeli Premier Golda Meir's cabinet met for 4½ hours Tuesday night in Jerusalem debating strategy in the negotiations. The government negotiator to the Israeli-Egyptian talks, Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv, briefed the cabinet, but details were not disclosed.

Ladies auxiliary plans telethon for funding of hospital equipment

By JOE KELL
Democrat-Capitol Staff Writer

A telethon sponsored by the Bothwell Hospital Ladies Auxiliary will be telecast from 5 p.m. to midnight Dec. 1. Mrs. Vivian Warren, chairman of the public relations committee, told the Hospital Board of Trustees Tuesday night.

The telethon, which will be shown on Channel 2, the local CATV station, is designed to raise funds for the purchase of equipment for the hospital.

Mrs. Warren said members of the Bothwell staff and trustees are expected to be guests on the telethon.

Don Feeback, hospital administrator, said this is the first attempt of this type to raise money for Bothwell.

The board voted to purchase a ventilator to be used as a back-up machine in the respiratory therapy room for $1,911 and accessories needed to install a whirlpool in the physical therapy department for $291.15.

The Children's Therapy Center purchased the whirlpool for the hospital, to be used both by the hospital and for patients of the therapy center.

James Keck reported to the board that construction on the hospital addition is proceeding well, with the brick work and boiler installation on schedule.

However, he reported that the architectural firm of Marshall and Brown, while inspecting work on the addition, discovered the roof over the operating room needs repair.

According to a letter sent to Feeback by Marshall and Brown, the roof needs three drains to prevent water pools from forming.

The board decided to ask Marshall and Brown to draw up specifications for the repair of the roof and ask Borchers and Heimsoth Construction Co., Cole Camp, the general contractor working on the $1.5 million expansion program to undertake the roof repair. No cost estimate on the roof repair was immediately available.

The hospital operated at a $6,568 deficit in October, according to the profit and loss statement for October submitted at the meeting. Firmin D. Boul, finance committee chairman, said the deficit resulted from three pay periods in October, as opposed to the normal two pay periods.

Feeback told the board that the hospital has received two more donations for outfitting rooms in the new addition, both

Some in Eastern Missouri will pay higher electric bills

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Consumers in some areas of eastern Missouri will be paying higher electric bills next month while the Federal Power Commission decides whether to grant a permanent wholesale rate increase to Union Electric Co.

The St. Louis-based utility firm has increased the wholesale rate 31.5 per cent to a subsidiary, Missouri Power and Light Co. of Jefferson City, and 44 per cent to some municipally owned electric redistribution centers and investor-owned utilities.

The interim wholesale rate boost is effective Dec. 17 and must be approved by the FPC before the increase becomes permanent. The FPC is scheduled to begin hearings on the Union Electric request Dec. 11.

The 31.5 per cent increase to Missouri Power would affect a wide area of north-central and northeast Missouri, including such cities as Jefferson City, Moberly, Mexico, Kirksville and Louisiana.

The larger increase applies to operations in Kirkwood, Rolla, Piedmont, Ste. Genevieve, Farmington, Fredericktown, Eldon, St. James and Hannibal, as well as West Point, Iowa.

The two wholesale rate increases would generate about $10 million in new revenue annually for Union Electric, which said the increases were needed because of "generally increasing costs in this inflationary period."

Clyde Allen, director of corporate planning for Union Electric, said the reaction to the increase has been "one of shock."

City Manager Max Durbin of Kirkwood said he felt the 44 per cent increase was arbitrary. "It is awfully difficult for me to see where a 44 per cent increase is justified in one fell swoop," he said.

The Kirkwood City Council has approved a 24 per cent surcharge on city electric bills effective Dec. 17 to offset the wholesale boost, and Durbin said the surcharge would be eliminated or reduced later, depending on the FPC decision.

"We've formed a common defense group to share the cost of intervention at the (FPC) hearing. There is a solid front of opposition," Durbin said.

The board of public works in Rolla has voted to increase electric rates to its customers 20 per cent on Dec. 20 to offset the wholesale increase.

"We're operating on the assumption that Union Electric will not get everything it asked for," said William O'Haver, manager of Rolla Municipal Utilities.

O'Haver noted that the FPC staff has recommended an increase of 27.4 per cent in the Union Electric wholesale rate. He said the 20 per cent boost approved by the public works board would cover the cost of the anticipated increase to be allowed ultimately.

O'Haver said that the 44 per cent increase in Union Electric rates would cost Rolla $495,000 a year without an offsetting retail rate increase.

"I think it's too high," O'Haver said of the proposed 44 per cent increase. "I just can't see where 44 per cent would be justified. If that increase is granted, we'll have to increase the rate to our customers again."

Ragtime, jazz producer to meet with Sedalians

A Los Angeles ragtime and jazz pageant producer, Richard Zimmerman, will be in Sedalia in December to confer with officials of the Scott Joplin Festival Committee, festival president Larry Melton told the Chamber of Commerce board Tuesday afternoon.

"We're going to talk to him with the idea that he could direct our activities next summer," Melton said. "The festival now is getting out of our league."

Teen-ager is charged with murder

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A St. Louis teen-ager was charged with second-degree murder Tuesday in connection with the weekend shooting death of a 9-year-old boy, police said.

Adrian Montgomery, 19, was named in a warrant issued by the St. Louis circuit attorney's office following the death of Aaron Scott, 9.

Scott was shot in the head while playing on a city street and died about 24 hours later at City Hospital.

Police said Montgomery surrendered to authorities early Tuesday morning a short time after the Scott youth died.

Police first quoted Montgomery as saying he became involved in an argument over money with another man and that during the argument Montgomery fired a shot from a .38-caliber revolver to scare the man.

Montgomery said he saw the youth fall and then panicked and fled the scene, according to police.

But later Tuesday, police said, Montgomery changed his story and denied firing the shot.

Melton also told the board he is "reasonably optimistic" regarding the festival committee's efforts to obtain grant money from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Missouri Council on the Arts.

Melton applauded Rep. William J. Randall's efforts on the national level and festival committee member Bill Hopkins' work to obtain state funds. The personal intervention of Randall and Hopkins, he said, has been particularly helpful because the festival committee does not fall into the traditional classifications of groups that normally receive aid from the two agencies.

"For example," Melton said, "Groups receiving any kind of funds are technically supposed to have sponsored at least one event. Of course, the Joplin Festival will be the first of its kind."

"Nothing too specific has yet jelled because we're still in a formative stage," Melton explained. "However, I am certainly pleased that word of our festival is getting around. Every artist I have contacted has indicated he will be here."

In other business, a Chamber membership drive, aimed at rural residents, will probably begin sometime early next year, it was indicated. In responding to the suggestion, made by board member Jim Mathewson, Chamber president Jake Siragusa noted that, "many farms have a total worth of over $300,000. Farming is, today, a big business, and farmers have to be good businessmen just to survive. They are an important part of our area economy."

It was also announced that an open membership dinner will be held at 7 p.m. next Wednesday at the Ramada Inn. At the dinner each executive board committee head will report on his group's activities during the past year. Siragusa said he'd like to make the meetings a quarterly affair.

Adam Fischer, chairman of the governmental and civic affairs committee, announced that the committee's third breakfast of the year, to feature Randall, has been postponed from December to January. Fischer indicated this was done because of Randall's appearance Sunday at the Municipal Building dedication.

It was announced that work on the revised Sedalia tourism brochure is progressing rapidly. A slide presentation, accompanied by a tape recorded message, is being produced in connection with the brochure.

The final deadline for entering floats in the Chamber Christmas parade will be 9 a.m. Friday. The parade will be held Dec. 1.

Fifteen die in religious bus crash

SAN NICOLAS, Mexico (AP) — A bus overloaded with religious pilgrims hurtled 141 feet down a mountain ravine, killing 15 persons and injuring 43 others. A Red Cross spokesman said many of the survivors reported that the bus driver was drunk.

The driver and an infant girl were among those killed. The injured included 25 youngsters, officials said.

Red Cross spokesman Jose Angel Guerrero said, "Many of the survivors said the driver was drunk."

Agustin Montes de Oca, one of the passengers, told the Red Cross, "The driver was drunk ... we told him not to drive but he took over anyway. He tried to pass a truck and that's all I can remember."

He said the driver got drunk Tuesday night at religious celebrations in Chalma, about 50 miles southwest of Mexico City, and then wanted to drive back to the capital.

The pilgrims kept the driver away from the wheel so one of them could drive, but he soon became hostile and seized the wheel, Montes de Oca said.

Guerrero said the bus had room for 41 passengers but was carrying more than 70.

A train derailment in Saltillo killed 204 pilgrims on Oct. 5, 1972, and there were claims that the train's crewmen were drunk. The claims were never proven, but five crewmen were convicted of homicide due to negligence and are serving sentences of five to seven years.

Jewish violinists raise question

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the question raised by a reader regarding the coincidence that most of the world's great violinists were Jewish. He named several — Fritz Kreisler, Mischa Elman, Jascha Heifetz, Yehudi Menuhin, Isaac Stern, Nathan Milstein, etc. Milstein's explanation (that Jews, through centuries of persecution, gravitated to the violin because it was easier to pick up a violin and run with it than a piano) was amusing, but it raised another question, one which has far-reaching significance in our present-day culture. Do you believe that Jews are smarter than Gentiles? — World Observer

Dear World Ob.: Smarter? No. But if you examine the list of achievers in the arts and sciences (Nobel prize winners, for example) you will find a surprisingly disproportionate number of Jews on every list. Golda Meir, the Prime Minister of Israel, had this to say on the other side: "It took Moses 40 years to lead his people to the only place in the Middle East that doesn't have any oil." That's smart?

Dear Ann Landers: After reading the comments made by "Tactile Tillie," the woman whose husband wouldn't touch her outside the bedroom (not even a friendly pat), I wish I knew her phone number. I'd call her up and say, "You're lucky, honey. Your husband has respect for you."

The sex maniac I am married to had a vasectomy two years ago and has been hounding me ever since. He can't even pass me in the hall without trying to start something. It's disgusting. I can't say "thank you" when he does something nice because he always replies, "It will cost you something," or "It wasn't free." All this proves he has no regard for my feelings and that he doesn't respect me as a person. His "love" is sick, self-serving, self-centered, carnal and lustful. He's an insensitive, insatiable stud.

Tell Tillie to take pride in the fact that her husband loves her enough not to embarrass her in front of her children, friends, and neighbors by leering and grabbing and making suggestive remarks. Sex (I refuse to call it love) should be kept in the bedroom where it belongs. — Tired

Dear T.: There ain't no justice, lady. Although your point is well taken, there are thousands of women who don't care what you call it or what room it's in. They'd just love a little of what you have too much of. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Our youngest child, a boy, was premature. He had to stay in the hospital incubator for three weeks.

That child did not speak one word until he was three years of age. I was deeply concerned that he might be retarded, although he understood everything. We had him tested and the results showed he was unusually bright.

Today the boy is 14 years old and he doesn't shut his mouth from the minute he gets up in the morning until he goes to sleep at night. It's almost as if he is making up for the time he lost. I am not writing for advice, Ann. I'm just writing to tell those mothers out there that if their kids are slow to talk, don't worry. Enjoy the silence. — Momma

Dear Momma: Thanks for those words of advice. Some mothers DO worry about the problem and your letter will help quiet their fears.

Christmas celebration is planned

(Democrat-Capital Service)

BOONVILLE — A Christmas celebration unlike anything ever held in Central Missouri in recent years is being planned for Boonville beginning Dec. 10.

Called the "Spirit of Christmas" celebration, the two-week-long event will feature live Christmas caroling every night by area churches and schools, and a large decorated tree on the lawn of the Municipal Building.

"The purpose of the Spirit of Christmas celebration is to put Christ back in Christmas and to put the spirit of Christmas back into the people," said Boonville businessman Dave Stephens, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee that is organizing the celebration.

Every evening beginning Dec. 10 and continuing until Dec. 22, choral groups will sing near the tree. The singing will be broadcast downtown by loudspeakers. Recorded music will be played whenever live music is not available.

Other Spirit of Christmas plans include decorating street lights and parking meters with greenery, a proclamation by Boonville Mayor Stanley Crain marking the two-week celebration, and an official tree-lighting ceremony at 7 p.m. Dec. 10.

Tax advantage on papers small for Johnson

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson gave the bulk of his papers to the United States without obtaining any tax advantage, says the director of the LBJ Library.

Director Harry Middleton said Johnson gave 200,000 documents, covering the years before he entered the U.S. Senate in 1948, to the library before a law allowing tax write-offs for such gifts was changed in 1969. Johnson served in the House before being elected a senator.

He said in an interview that he believed Johnson obtained a tax exemption only for those 200,000 papers, out of a total of 31 million.

President Nixon said during a news conference Saturday night that one reason he had paid only "nominal amounts" of income tax in 1970 and 1971 was that he had obtained a write-off, at Johnson's suggestion, for giving his vice presidential papers to the government before the tax change.

Triglycerides are not cholesterol

Dear Dr. Lamb — My doctor says I have triglycerides in my blood. I never heard of it before. What is the difference between triglycerides and cholesterol? I try to keep my weight down and not use too much fat. Please tell me what to do. My old doctor would have explained and told me more, but he left, and I had to get another doctor. He doesn't tell me anything. I'm not afraid to know what is wrong.

Dear Reader — Triglycerides is a scientific name for fats. Most of the fat in our bodies, and that we eat, is in this form. What your doctor is telling you is that you have too much fat in your blood.

Cholesterol is not actually a fat, although it is a waxy material. It is formed by the liver. The liver can make it from too many calories of any type, including carbohydrates and even proteins. Whenever you eat more calories than your body uses, there is a probability that your liver will form excess amounts of cholesterol. You can also get more cholesterol from the food you eat. Egg yolks and organ meats are the most common foods that contain lots of cholesterol.

The cholesterol with the fat forms small particles that can be deposited in the wall of arteries causing atherosclerosis, which leads to heart attacks, strokes, and other problems.

Some people require special care to help control their blood fats and cholesterol. The majority, however, can do much better by decreasing their body fat. This means decreasing the number of calories eaten and increasing physical activity.

You are wise to limit the fat in your diet. You might make a point to include more poultry and fish in your diet and less mammal meat if you tend to use lots of it. You can also use low fat dairy products, such as fortified skim milk and uncreamed cottage cheese. Prepare your foods using corn oil or safflower oil at home. Limit the fatty salad dressings and the fat, high calorie desserts.

And a word about your new doctor. He would probably enjoy talking to you more. Most doctors actually did go into medicine because they enjoy doing things for people. The problem often is that they simply can't. The modern medical system has forced each doctor to see a lot of patients just to keep the office open. I sometimes think doctors have to see too many patients. But, a busy doctor with lots of responsibility can't take the time to explain all about foods and living patterns. If he did, he wouldn't be able to see all of the patients that need to see him. This is too bad because some of these aspects of health care are very important factors in how people get along with their problems. This is why I think we must try to do more to help people help themselves.

Increasing a doctor's responsibility to see more and more patients, even with the aid of computers, new office management, and new expensive equipment is not going to make it any easier for him to have the time to explain a lot or spend much time with each of his patients.

Seat belts and children

By PETER WEAVER

Q — We were looking over 1974 model cars and noticed that the seat belts are fused into one piece. Both the lap belt and the shoulder strap comes in one piece. How does this work with a small child? In the past we just used the lap belt. — D.R., New York City

A — You are correct in the assumption that just the lap belt should be used on a small child. Putting the shoulder belt over the child's face or neck could be dangerous in a crash.

Chrysler and American Motors warn new car owners not to have the shoulder strap cover a child's face. American Motors suggests putting the belt system in place and then folding the shoulder belt in back of the child. General Motors and Ford, to date, have not mentioned this seat belt danger in their manuals.

Life sentence for robbery-murder

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Grover C. McKinney, 28, was sentenced to life in prison Tuesday in St. Louis Circuit Court after he was convicted of the Feb. 16 robbery-murder of Michael Johnson.

McKinney was given an additional 25-year sentence on the robbery charge. A second man convicted in connection with the murder, Willie Lee Williams, was given an identical sentence following his trial in August.

Johnson, 24, of St. Louis, was shot to death during a robbery at his home.

for Child Transportation Safety, is petitioning the Department of Transportation to require all auto manufacturers, American and foreign, to put adequate warnings in manuals about child restraint with the new seat belts.

The action group recommends putting a firm cushion under a child so the lap belt will cover the hips and not the stomach. The safest place for a small child is to be belted in the back seat.

Q — How good are these truck driver schools that are being advertised? I'm a veteran and they say they're approved for veterans' benefits. — W.C., Arlington, Va.

A — According to trucking companies, some of the highly advertised truck driver schools aren't much good at all. One problem is the fact that the courses sometimes don't train drivers to use the right type of equipment. And some courses imply that jobs will be easy to get if you just take the course. Jobs are often hard, or impossible, to get after the course is completed. Also, just because a course is "approved for veterans' benefits" doesn't mean it is "approved" as far as quality is concerned.

The American Trucking Association has a booklet, "What to Look for in a Truck Driver Training School," which can be of considerable help in selecting a school. You can get a free copy by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: American Trucking Assn., 1616 P. St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Q — I read a health food article which said powdered milk suffers a great loss in nutritional value. Does this mean that it's better for your health to drink the more expensive fresh milk? — P.B., Pacific Palisades, Calif.

A — According to the Department of Agriculture, non-fat dried (powdered) milk, when mixed with the correct proportion of water, has the same nutritional value as regular non-fat or skim milk. When you compare skim milk with whole milk, the skim milk does not have as much vitamin A but also does not have as much fat content.

Take note: The Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce advises car owners to lock cars even when they're in their own driveway or garage. The VDAC says "most car thefts occur in residential districts and most thefts are at night."

Civil suit dismissed Tuesday

Twelve members of a Pettis County Circuit Court jury were sent home Tuesday morning after the plaintiff in a $1,500 civil suit told Circuit Court Judge Frank Meyer he wanted to dismiss the case.

The suit, filed by Cecil F. Grotjan against Raymond T. Crafton, sought the money for alleged damage to Grotjan's 1969 Ford. Grotjan contended that the vehicle depreciated in price $1,500 after an accident on Nov. 15, 1972, at South Summit and East Sixth, in which a pickup truck driven by Crafton allegedly collided with the Ford, driven by Grotjan's wife, Charlotte.

The case was filed in Circuit Court on a change of venue from Magistrate Court.

The request for the dismissal came after partial testimony had been presented by the plaintiff's attorney, Jim Rice. Crafton's attorney was Ken Romines.

Members of the jury were: Joseph Ritzo, Glen Miesner, Chester Anderson, Mrs. B. C. Claycomb, James Anderson, Lloyd Banaka, Noah Killion, Clyde Bullock, Betty Hickam, Clarence Trautmann, Mrs. Smith Higgins and Lyman Parks.

Higher court will hear theft case

Michael A. Smith, 19, Route 1, was bound over for trial to Pettis County Circuit Court Wednesday on a charge of second degree burglary and stealing. His preliminary hearing was held in Magistrate Court.

Smith is charged with the Oct. 5 theft of an electric piano and electric synthesizer at the Wilken Music Co., 3100 West Broadway.

Similar charges against another person arrested in connection with the break-in, Mark Wallen, St. Joseph, were dismissed by Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming Wednesday for what he termed a "lack of evidence."

Smith is free on $2,500 bond.

Mild heart attack suffered by Peron

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Juan D. Peron suffered a mild heart attack early today but was resting at home in stable condition, presidential aides said.

Peron's doctors confirmed earlier today that the 78-year-old president is ill. But they announced publicly only that he is suffering from "a recurrence of a bronchial condition."

Aides said the president had a five-minute seizure about 2 a.m.

Eugene Peterschmidt

QUINCY, Ill. — Eugene Peterschmidt, 81, died here Tuesday.

He was born here Nov. 19, 1892, son of the late Conrad and Catherine Kramer Peterschmidt. He was preceded in death by his wife, Marie.

Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Marie Zumsteg, Mrs. Marge Blanchard and Mrs. Eugenia Bachman, all of Quincy; Sister Domitilla, Florissant, Mo.; and one brother, Henry Peterschmidt, 219 West Seventh, Sedalia.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 a.m. Friday at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Quincy.

Drug arrests now total four on list of 12

The arrest of three persons Tuesday and another Wednesday means that four of the 12 persons who were charged in Pettis County Magistrate Court Monday on drug charges have been apprehended.

Arraigned in Magistrate Court Wednesday on charges of sale of marijuana were Kenneth Mitchell, 25, 515 North Washington; Reggie Jones, 18, 2117 East Broadway; Daniel Hern, 19, 1007 East Third; and Eddie Lee Powers, 20, 1629 East Fifth. Powers is charges in two separate complaints. The other three are each charged with one offense.

The four are charged with selling marijuana earlier this year to an undercover agent working for the Sedalia police department.

Hern was arrested by Pettis County sheriff's officers Wednesday morning. The other three were taken into custody Tuesday.

Mitchell remains in the Pettis County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. The other three posted bond Wednesday. Powers is free on a total of $10,000 bond; the other two are free on $5,000 bond each.

The preliminary hearing date for Jones was set for Dec. 10. Preliminary hearings for the other three were set for Dec. 12.

Thirteen warrants were initially filed Monday but Tuesday Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming dismissed one of the cases. The person was charged with sale of phenylclidine, a depressant which is listed as a controlled substance.

Fleming explained Wednesday that the charge was dismissed because a police report of the alleged drug sale contained erroneous information.

The said, "The report contained both a name and description of the individual. The name did not fit the description so we came to the conclusion that it was the wrong person. Assuming that we find who the individual is (who made the alleged sale), we will refile."

Fleming said the police identified the person who made the alleged sale through the license plate of a car he was seen driving. Fleming said the name of the person charged was the owner of the auto, who was not the one involved in the alleged transaction.

Ford faces final questions on confirmation today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford faces confirmation questions on his effort in 1970 to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., said he will put the questions to Ford today when Ford goes before the House Judiciary Committee for what may be his last day of hearings before confirmation.

The Senate Rules Committee unanimously approved Ford's confirmation Tuesday and the full Senate is to vote on it next week. The House committee is to take its vote next week and put what may be final confirmation to a House vote the following week.

Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., of the Senate Committee was asked if he believed Congress might, in effect, be confirming a man to become the next president. He replied, "I think that is a very strong likelihood."

Amounts of the settlements were not disclosed.

Goals

These persons, he said, will also develop program priority lists.

Among the suggested projects in the survey were in-service workshops in specialty and general areas, guidance services, additional health services, additional consultants, curriculum development and education adjustment teachers. Each of these general divisions were sub-divided into more specific areas.

Assisting the committee and local school officials in compiling information and authoring the request to Title 7 officials are Dr. Fred Gies and Dr. Charles Leopold, staff members of the University of Missouri-Columbia Center for Educational Improvement.

The $3,000 fee for these consultant services is being incorporated into the request, Henningsen said. If the district fails to receive funds, the fee will not be paid.

A public hearing on the completed report will be held at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 3 at the board of education office, Henningsen said. Following this meeting, the report submitted to the Department of Health Education and Welfare on Dec. 17.

Promises to dispel Watergate shadow

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — President Nixon has promised Republican governors he will dispel the Watergate shadow on their political futures and has apologized for any trouble he has caused them.

The President also told a closed session of the winter meeting of the Republican Governors Association that he knows of no other scandals that could add to their embarrassment.

"The President looked at us around the room and said, 'I'm sorry if I have added to your burden,'" Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn said after the governors had listened for almost two hours to Nixon's Watergate defense Tuesday.

Governors said on leaving the closed meeting that Nixon made the strongest promises yet for full disclosure of all the facts he has about the problems that began when burglars were arrested inside Democratic party headquarters on June 17, 1972.

"He indicated a number of papers will be issued clearly responding to the questions which have been raised," Dunn said. He said those questions included the President's personal finances, the ITT affair and the milk-price case.

"Every question we asked was answered in full," Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond said. "And he indicated an additional four- or five-point program to continue answering, in the courts, in open news sessions, through documents he expects to release and by fuller answers to the most asked questions."

Business machine theft value is set at $1,341

Sedalia police are investigating the theft of a number of office and business machines taken in two separate thefts overnight.

Thieves made off with $1,341 in office machines from Klassic Manufacturing Co., 3500 South Klassic Ave., sometime between 6:15 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday, according to a police report.

Taken in the break-in were a cassette tape recorder, an AM-FM radio, a calculator and an auto-slide projector. A cigarette machine was also broken into and a pop machine was pried on. No estimate

Jail sentences are appealed by man, woman

The cases of two Kansas Citians who were each sentenced to a year in the county jail on misdemeanor stealing charges were appealed to Pettis County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Out-of-court settlements also were reached Tuesday and Wednesday on three civil suits.

Appealed to Circuit Court were the cases of Anita Olga Tillman, 23, and James Michael Bell, 24, who were sentenced by Magistrate Court Judge Frank Armstrong Nov. 8 following a hearing in Magistrate Court.

Judge Armstrong found them guilty of stealing clothing Oct. 13 from the Montgomery Ward Co., 400 South Osage. The one-year sentences were the maximum that could be imposed for a misdemeanor. Both Miss Tillman and Bell are in the county jail.

In the civil suits, Emmett Smith and Lois H. Smith dismissed their damage petitions against Mabel Schwenk. Both petitions were filed Jan. 15.

Emmett Smith was asking for $25,715 and Lois Smith was seeking $25,312 for alleged injuries both received in a Sept. 24, 1972, auto accident involving a car driven by Smith and a vehicle driven by Mabel Schwenk on Highway 65 near Routes H and HH.

The other dismissed petition was filed Sept. 17, 1969, by Joseph and Frances Phillips against C. W. Wicker, Route 1, Houstonia.

Phillips was seeking $15,000 and his wife $5,000 for alleged injuries he sustained Dec. 18, 1968, while he was working for Wicker. Phillips contended a defective auger was responsible for his injuries. The auger was reportedly owned by Wicker.

Amounts of the settlements were not disclosed.

When police responded to a disturbance call at 368 West Saline, they found that Salmons was in a house at 334 West Saline. Police reportedly tried to talk Salmons out of the house, but he refused. A police officer finally entered the house and brought the man out. Salmons is being held in city jail pending trial on a charge of disorderly conduct.

California, Eldon youths die in crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A surge of highway accidents late Tuesday and early today provided a bloody prelude to the holiday traffic rush in Missouri.

By this morning, the toll stood at 11. The official count of holiday highway deaths does not start until 6 p.m. today.

A 48-year-old physician at Poplar Bluff, Dr. Bobby McClain, was one of the preholiday victims. His car ran off U.S. 67 about 10 miles south of Poplar Bluff late Tuesday night, and he was killed when it crashed into some trees.

The jack-knifing of a big truck, and its collision with two cars near Wyatt southeast Missouri killed Mrs. W. E. Mitchell, 56, of Oklahoma City.

A head-on collision on Missouri 47 about three miles northwest of Bonne Terre, Mo., early today killed Oneta Eastell McMahon, 29, who lived on a rural route out of Bonne Terre.

A car hurtled out of control for almost one-quarter of a mile in the eastern part of Independence before it overturned in a clump of trees in the east part of Independence, Mo., Tuesday and killed its driver. The victim was Jerry W. Enloe, 27, of Mission, Kan., a Kansas City suburb.

Ray E. Clapper, 49, Bartlesville, Okla., was pinned behind the wheel of his tractor-trailer and crushed to death when the vehicle left Interstate 44 about 5-miles west of Mount Vernon in Lawrence County and plunged down an embankment.

Randall G. Harmon, 19, and Rodney D. Ray, 19, both of California, Mo., were killed when the car in which they were passengers missed a curve on Missouri Route 87 in Cooper County about three miles south of Interstate 70 shortly after midnight.

Earlier, John Mullaney, 23, and Nicci Rae Schultz, 20, both of Mattoon, Ill., were killed when their car left U.S. 36 west of Hannibal, and Nancy Cotten, 18, Rocky Mount, Mo., and Marshal Potter, 17, Barnett, Mo., died in a two car collision on Miller County Route Y just southwest of Eldon.

Only council has power to change ordinance

There is no way the city could adopt a full-time mayor ordinance except through City Council action, City Counselor Robert Fritz said Wednesday.

Fritz's statement was in response to recent questions asking whether the city could adopt a full-time mayor ordinance by bypassing the council.

He said that the powers of initiative and referendum, as well as recall, do not apply to third class cities since there are no provisions for these powers in the state statutes governing third class cities.

"The statutes do not provide for any of the three in third class cities," he said. "They may apply in other class cities or in some charter cities, but not in third class cities."

Initiative is the process by which legislation may be introduced or enacted directly by the people. A referendum is the practice of referring measures passed by the legislative body to the electorate for approval or rejection. Recall is similar to impeachment proceedings, and initiated by the voters.

Thus, because there is no provision for initiative, legislation calling for the full-time mayor ordinance could not be initiated by the voters. Similarly, because there is no provision of a referendum, any full-time mayor election could only be advisory and not binding.

Fourth Ward Councilman George Dugan Jr., suggested at Monday night's council meeting that the council should initiate a binding full-time mayor election.

At last April's advisory election, 52 per cent of the voters said they wanted a full-time mayor; 10 per cent said they favored a full-time administrator; and 38 per cent said they wanted no change in the present part-time mayor system.

The council has been arguing the full-time mayor issue for six months. No action has been taken.

IRS announces improved tax forms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Improved income tax forms to make filing easier and faster have been announced by Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald C. Alexander.

And, Alexander urged employers Tuesday to distribute W2 withholding statements as early as possible to enable employees to file early.

Taxpayers who file for refunds in January usually receive them within four to five weeks, while persons filing later may have to wait up to eight weeks because of the greater volume of returns being processed, Alexander said.

Life for the 'soft' generation wasn't so soft

WASHINGTON — Boy, am I indignant! Incensed is more like it. And so should be all of you who are of an age to have leaped out of rompers just in time to rush into World War II and save this great nation from Fascism. Nazism and the rest of those isms that always pop up when people want to fight.

Rowan

A college student has the audacity to write me claiming that "the energy crisis is going to do this country in because your pot-bellied, luxury-loving generation long ago forgot the meaning of sacrifice."

She thinks we are a bunch of overly affluent snobs who "will walk 15 minutes searching for an errant golf ball, or run an hour in chase of a tennis ball, but wouldn't suffer the 'indignity' of walking two blocks for the groceries."

She underestimates our ability to withstand adversity.

Maybe a few of her young whippersnapper peer-groupers won't know how to sacrifice. After all, our greatest error may be that we overdid that sentimental nonsense of saying, "I want my children to have all the things I never had!"

Millions of kids apparently took that to mean an apartment away from home at 17, a wallet full of credit cards, a buggy with a tachometer and dual four-barrel carbs and as much marijuana as they wanted.

No. Back off. I'm not really declaring war on today's teenagers and young adults. This is all an excuse to tell them what they face in the years ahead. We old fogies know, because we've been there when this nation was poor and KNEW it was poor.

Do I need a heated swimming pool? Not me. I'm just not that many light years away from the time when most of the people I know didn't even have a heated faucet — except on those days when it would freeze and we would steal the Nashville Tennessean off somebody's porch and burn it around the outdoor pipe so we could get a bucket of water.

You would put that water on one eye of a good wood stove and heat it and then splash it into the galvanized tin tub where you would take that weekly bath which made you feel not so guilty to climb into your other pair of long johns.

Let the record show that a lot of us are still prepared to turn off the automatic water heater and splash our warm water in by the painful. But where does one find a LARGE galvanized tub these days?

Well, anyhow, there surely are some of those zinc-faced washboards around where I used to scrub my knuckles so white I almost got into the McMinville Country Club. That was well before that liquid which prevents ring-around-the-collar turned 45-year-old housewives into teapotters.

But I just betcha that my wife and the women of her generation will be happy to turn off their automatic washers and dryers and go back to the rub-a-dub days when women were women and were especially aware of it on washday.

That sassy young chickadee thinks we've outgrown our raisings, that it's not within our capacity to go to bed with the thermostat at 66. Ooooo, she should have been around in the days when the wind raced through our little frame houses faster than John Dean on a tourist tour of the White House.

The only heat at bedtime was a red-glowing pot-bellied stove in the "living room," and you stood there with your belly burning up and your butt freezing, then suddenly you made a mad dash for your bedroom with four sisters and brothers.

Then you all kept the covers over your head all night (don't let that warm breath out!). And heaven spare you the need to go to the bathroom in the middle of night, since that meant a 50-yard tiptoe through the frost-covered pumpkins and vanishing turnip greens to the privy out in back.

I just want that young critic to know that some of us won't like austerity. We haven't exactly been dreaming of going back to outhouses, one-meal days and long hikes in search of jobs that didn't exist.

But we've been there. We came out of it. And the nation came out of it with us. I rather imagine that the things today's 20-year-olds will talk about with most nostalgia and pride 25 or 30 years from now will be how they suffered and sacrificed to bring America through "the great energy crisis."

Remember JFK for his vision

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — This is a personal reminiscence of John Kennedy which fastens hard on his strong qualities. In this time of disillusionment, we need the refreshment of good memories spun not from fantasy but reality.

Blossat

What we don't need are the tainted appraisals of our "revisionist" historians, viewing Kennedy through the fogged lens of their anti-Vietnam war emotions, cramped by too little knowledge even as they pretend to more than others have gathered.

A comet who flashed by too quickly, John Kennedy will not be fairly judged by history for years to come. His critics say he was all promise and no delivery, that, unreasonably, he lifted up people's spirits and expectations. He prepared the way, it is said, for the disillusionments which came with black riot, war, and Watergate.

But no one truly knows what he, and hence his presidency, would have become had he lived. What we do know is something of what he was, as perceived while he lived and not later by men of self-serving special purpose.

I knew him a dozen years, through campaigning and many interviews. Though he began shy and always showed a somewhat deceptive reserve, I found him an easy companion, wholly natural, incredibly candid, with the wit of a comedian but of a perceptive observer of life's contradictions, absurdities and, indeed, tragedies.

Once, on a December day when as president-elect he'd paid his first visit to President Eisenhower, he spotted me at curbside in the deepening dusk. He'd just pulled away from columnist Walter Lippmann's house, and I was by chance with my daughter and her schoolmates who had rushed out in hope of seeing this new young hero. His car stopped in mid-street, he got out, strode over, shook hands, invited me to fly with him to New York (which I couldn't do).

To heel-dogging newsmen who couldn't see me in the dark, it looked crazy. Critics would have put it down to "buttering up a reporter." Kennedy knew the value of a friendly press, but the fundamental then was just naturalness. He liked newsmen.

His political intelligence was of the highest order, unsurpassed at least in this century, dominant over the judgments of his brother Robert and other sharp aides. I suspect this grasp would have served him well in a longer presidency, for it is a vital ingredient in a leader's decision-making.

John Kennedy always could see real peril to his prospects, as with the hatreds stirred by his Catholicism. In every instance, he rose to the challenge.

He took the nettle of his religion in the crucial 1960 West Virginia primary. My vivid memory is his slender figure atop a car hood in a shabby town, his own voice raising the question no one in the audience had brought up.

When Harry Truman spurned the convention as "rigged" for Kennedy, the young man, victor in seven straight primaries, answered on nationwide television. In personal encounter at the convention scene, he faced down challenger Lyndon Johnson, absorbed a burst of insults, and then hard-headedly picked his detractor as his running mate. That fall he debated and beat Richard Nixon, champion debater.

Through 12 years I watched John Kennedy grow as he enlarged his goals, seized the challenges, found a firm voice that lifted millions of Americans to new hope. I have no patience with those who pick flaws with the young Kennedy of 1950, for they deny his proven growth and deny him the chance to change which many would grant even to enemy nations. He should be remembered for the hope he spread — which we need so much today.

Gallup eyes GOP

The Republican Governors Association paid good money the other day to hear from Dr. George Gallup what any man on the street could have told them: Watergate will hurt the GOP.

The famed pollster addressed the governors at their meeting in Memphis, Tenn., and wrote off Republican attempts to minimize the impact of Watergate as "wishful thinking." He advised the governors to start rebuilding the party from the grassroots.

It is rather ironic that the Republican Party should be sailing into shoal waters at a time when it boasts some of the strongest potential presidential candidates in years. Men like Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Sen. Charles Percy and Gov. Ronald Reagan, to mention a few.

Whether these men can somehow rise above Watergate three years from now remains an open question. But Dr. Gallup, who has been surprised before, even held out the possibility that President Nixon could regain his popularity.

We should remember that politics, after all, is the art of the possible.

The right way

Sunday's ceremony dedicating the new Municipal Building revealed the "do your own thing" approach of many citizens to the playing of the National Anthem and the raising of the flag.

According to the U.S. Flag Code, when the colors are raised or lowered, men in civilian dress should place their hand over their heart while standing at attention. If you are wearing a hat, remove it and place it against your left shoulder, with your hand again over your heart. Women should simply place their hand over their heart.

At the playing of the National Anthem when the flag is not displayed, men and women in civilian dress should stand at attention, with men removing their hats.

One final tip for color guards: the Missouri State flag should be hoisted with the red stripe up, not down as it was Sunday.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — While the Postal Service forecasts a Merry Christmas for mailers, insiders say postal authorities are planning to use the energy crisis to explain away Yuletide mail slowdowns that are really the result of ordinary inefficiency.

Among middle-echelon officials, there is talk not only of slower mail, but of a post-Christmas limit of three home deliveries a week. Such proposals would have been heresy only a few years ago.

Already, an internal "Situation Paper" has been distributed to middle-level postal executives for use in dealing with employees and the public when complaints of slow service begin.

"Although no one is sure of the extent, the energy crisis could seriously impair our ability to transport mail," says the document. "Of 14,000 airline flights, approximately 300 have been lost to us because of cutbacks connected to the fuel shortage."

Our postal informants say the 300 flights are "peanuts" in the overall picture and should not delay the mails. However, the memo goes on, "Because the extent of the fuel shortage and our ability to find alternate forms of energy are still not known, postal officials will continue to watch the situation closely."

But once these fears are expressed, the "Situation Paper" points out that the federal Office of Oil and Gas has so far solved problems of "individual shortages" for both highway and air taxi contractors, and dealt efficiently with other postal demands.

'Museum of Nations' proposed

Since everyone has been airing his views on what to do with Bothwell Lodge, I thought I'd air mine.

How about making Bothwell Lodge into a "Museum of Nations," a treasure house of international art and handicrafts — a place where Central Missourians can go to see the fabulous embroidery of Japan and China, paintings of European nations, wood carvings of India, exotic musical instruments of Africa and a host of other interesting things from the far corners of the globe? It would be a welcome educational and art oasis in this vast arid area of the state.

There are many ways the state can acquire the museum pieces:

✓ The state could, through America's

Merry-go-round

Fuel crisis 'excuse' for postal problems

Actually, some top level officials loyal to impulsive Postmaster General E. T. "Ted" Klassen have heaved a little sigh of relief over the energy crisis. In October, Klassen promised this Christmas would see one of the best mail deliveries in history.

Since then, Klassen has been criticized for throwing fat contracts to his cronies, morale has dropped and postal deficits continue.

There is talk of first class rates of 20 cents or more by 1984 and inefficiencies persist.

Our informants insist that Klassen's noble aim of having all mail "current" by Dec. 24 was impossible to achieve even before the energy crunch came.

Publicly, the Postal Service insists Klassen can still realize his aim if mailers comply with his recent bid for earlier Yule mailings. For the record, the service denies vehemently the energy crisis is being used to cover up other postal problems or that a three-time-a-week home delivery schedule is in the offing.

TERRORIST TURNABOUT: The United States is trying to deport an ex-guerrilla leader to Syria where he faces possible torture and death on charges he embezzled $400,000 from Arab terrorists.

Ironically, if the United States sends him home, he can be forced to sign over at least $120,000 to the terrorists for use against Israeli civilians and other targets.

The strange troubles of the ex-terrorist, Mamdouh Barbour, began when he was a Syrian army major. According to his account, he refused to cooperate with a Soviet adviser and, as punishment, was assigned to the dread Saika terrorist group.

Classified State Department documents pick up the story, saying Barbour, now 43, was "the number three man in Saika" which was "established in the wake of the June 1967 War (for) anti-Israeli commando and terrorist activities."

"It is estimated that Saika is responsible for eight per cent of all commando operations since 1967. Although ostensibly a Palestine organization, it is, for all intents and purposes, a creation of the Syrian government."

As a Saika leader, Barbour was trusted with the funds needed for guns, payment of guerrillas and supplies.

Syria claims he heisted $400,000 while he was transferring the money from one account to another. Barbour claims the total was $140,000 at most, and the money was his inheritance and savings.

Everyone agrees Barbour left Syria in haste and used a forged passport from the little Arab land of Oman to go to Canada, where he stashed $120,000 in banks, then entered the United States illegally and made his way to friends in Texas.

There, Barbour was arrested by the United States at the request of a Syrian Interpol official, Mumtaz al Feteih, even though the United States has no diplomatic relations with Syria. For the last 18 months he has been in a Texas jail while the United States wrangles over what to do with him.

cultural envoys and the State Department, solicit "goodwill" exchanges of museum pieces between Missouri and other nations.

✓ The thousands of foreign students on Missouri campuses could be contacted. Who knows, some of them (collectively, like the Latin American Students Association at Columbia) might be interested in donating works of art from their countries?

✓ Pettis Countians who travel abroad could be encouraged to donate foreign artifacts to the museum.

✓ Where the above methods fail, the state could always buy.

A "Museum of Nations" might bring tourists (and money?) to Pettis County year-round. And if Sedalians work at it, we might even lure some visitors to our fair city when the State Fair is not on.

As it is, the Bothwell Lodge looks like a castle on the outside and like a museum in the inside.

An added attraction could be a mini zoo on the Bothwell hilltop. There aren't too many zoos in Central Missouri where you can take children to see animals from around the world.

Some nations take pride in sending gifts to American zoos. Remember the pandas from Peking?

Leave it to Kissinger. He might get us a goat from the Golan Heights or a mummy from Egypt.

Our dwindling stockpiles of care

"Morally it makes no difference whether a man is killed in war or is condemned to starve to death by the indifference of others." — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt

By Ralph Novak

NEW YORK — The United States has become, by default and through a mixture of motives both sublime and cynical, the international soup kitchen for hungry people all over the world.

But now, with food shortages and rising prices here making the well-fed man's burden seem a little less vital, the traditional food distribution organizations such as CARE and Catholic Relief Services are finding themselves with a few million too many mouths to feed.

Rendering themselves useless is, of course, the goal of such organizations. Ideally, they are fulfilling a caretaker role, helping people in the developing countries to survive while their own agricultural systems grow to self-sufficiency.

"That's not going to happen next year or the year after," says CARE executive director Frank Goffio. "It is a very long row to hoe."

Which is why CARE (Cooperative for American Relief Everywhere) and the other aid operations were distressed this summer when the Department of Agriculture announced severe cutbacks in the amount of food that would be available for distribution.

Most of the free food given out by American organizations has come from surplus products supplied by Public Law 480, which was passed in 1954. The law enabled the United States to dispose of surplus farm products that it would otherwise have had to pay to store. It gave work to the American shippers who transported it overseas, it developed export markets, it was a grand propaganda gesture (sacks of grain, for example, were emblazoned with red, white and blue drawings of the U.S. "helping hand") and it fed hungry people.

"It is a humanitarian law and one we can be proud of as a people," Goffio says.

(Not everyone is so certain of this. Tibor Mende, a former United Nations official and currently a professor at the Sorbonne in Paris, says in his recent book, "From Aid to Recolonization: Lessons of a Failure": "The worth of human lives saved in a famine cannot, of course, be estimated in monetary terms. Surplus-food distributions have saved and continue to save people from starvation just as, very probably, they have also helped to discourage higher production or overdue agrarian reforms. Nevertheless, the giving away of unsalable surpluses does not constitute a sacrifice to the donor country.")

The immediate problem is that the surpluses aren't as big as they were. Dried milk, for example, long a staple of the surplus program, is no longer available. Wheat supplies have dwindled. And Americans themselves are encountering shortages of some products, so that the generosity which was easy for an America contentedly munching its endless supply of Twinkies and Fritos and rippled potato chips now is a little more painful.

Goffio adds that CARE's food program which aids more than 30 million people, mostly children, has been cut by 40 per cent. And that comes after the 1972 CARE total distribution of about 680,000 pounds of food showed a reduction from 750,000 pounds in 1971.

"We can find the commodities to do the job," Goffio insists. "The question is keeping the attitude that we want to maintain the programs."

There has been evidence this year that the well-nourished world in general and the United States in particular will have the capacity to feed the hungry. The famine that hit six countries of sub-Saharan Africa after a five-year drought elicited more than $150 million in aid from around the world.

with a third of that coming from U.S. private and government sources.

Still, there are those like economist Eliot Janeway who describe food as "the ultimate weapon" and criticize food distribution programs as "cutting the muscle that foreigners respect."

"There is no way for other countries to avoid disintegration or inflation except by availing themselves of America's agricultural production," said Janeway recently.

In addition to such political opposition, the food aid organizations are faced with the more concrete problem of soaring world population, particularly in the poorest and hungriest nations. Pending some revolution in agronomy or land-use patterns, most aid officials argue that creation of a global food bank is the world's best weapon against starvation.

The food bank, which would administer reserves of food stocks deposited by member nations, has received support in principle from the World Bank, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, the U.S. Agency for International Development and the private Overseas Development Council (ODC), among others.

But it is still a politically questionable proposal, as ODC senior fellow Lester R. Brown wrote recently in the Wall Street Journal:

"Continued American callousness in the food area will inevitably have repercussions in our relations with the rest of the world in other domains. With large-scale investments abroad and a growing need for outside raw materials, the United States would be wise to build an atmosphere of international cooperation rather than conflict and competition in an area like food, where we hold the key to a more stable and equitable world system. Playing politics with food is risky indeed." (Newspaper Enterprise Association)

One-car 'total'

Two persons were injured in a one-car collision Tuesday evening on Route C, seven miles south of Sedalia. A spokesman for the Highway Patrol said Stanley Keith Allen, 24, West DeMoines, Iowa, was headed northwest on Route C when the accident occurred. A passenger, Thomas Lawson, Sunrise Beach, Mo., told The Democrat-Capital that the car, a 1973 Saab, went out of control just after rounding a curve in the road. A passer-by took Lawson and Allen to Bothwell Hospital, Lawson said. Both men were treated for facial lacerations and released, a hospital spokesman said.

Speaking out for rural America

New Municipal Building given rousing welcome

From all walks of city life, they came to participate in and observe the Municipal Building dedication ceremonies. They saw members of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce Ambassador's Club, resplendent in blue blazers bearing the city seal; the black and gold Smith-Cotton High School band, playing a majestic Star Spangled Banner; and local artists, whose works graced the inside walls.

There were also members of the American Legion, proudly hoisting the Missouri State Flag and Old Glory to the top of the gleaming flag pole; the proud senior citizens, most of whom thought they would never see such an event in their lifetime; and the numerous children, many crushed against their fathers' chests to better view the event.

For those who were there, the spirit and the splendor did indeed merge. Sunday, Nov. 18, would be a day to remember for them all.

Roadrunners thump RMC

Webb keys State Fair come-from-behind win

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Colles Webb, who had played "sub-par," according to head coach Bill Barton, chose a good time to break out of his two-game slump.

"He played with the confidence I knew he had in him," said Barton after Webb led State Fair Community College in a come-from-behind effort over Robert Morris College of Carthage, Ill., Tuesday night, 85-75, on the Roadrunners' home floor.

"He boarded well and keyed our second half offense," Barton added of his 6-4 sophomore from Memphis, Tenn.

Webb, who was benched during Saturday night's loss to Crowder College in the championship game of the State Fair Classic because of his poor performance, more than made up for his showing last week, tossing in 26 points and pulling down 10 rebounds.

Webb scored nine points, including a crucial three-point play in the span of three minutes in the second half, to help wipe out a 59-48 Robert Morris lead, and put State Fair in command, 69-65, with 6:45 to go.

But the victory didn't come strictly on the performance of Webb, who celebrated his 21st birthday in stunning style. Freshman center Stan McNeill, a 6-9 product of Aliquippa, Pa., broke out of his scoring slump for 22 points and 15 rebounds.

In addition, Charles Shell, the Roadrunners' 6-7 sophomore forward, played a big part in the Roadrunners' come-back with 16 points, a number of which were sandwiched between Webb's mid-second-half effort.

Trailing 59-48 with 12:34 on the clock, State Fair rang up eight unanswered points to pull within three, 59-56 on a 15-footer from the wing by sophomore guard Jack Easley.

Mark Taylor finally broke the ice for the Eagles with a field goal at 9:38. But Shell took a Jerry Bybee feed inside for a pair, and Webb stole the ball and added a layup, to pull the Roadrunners to within one, 61-60, with 8:56 to go.

Shell put SFCC ahead for the first time since late in the first half, 62-61, at 8:32. Following a bucket by James Cloud, Webb reeled off seven points, putting the Roadrunners ahead, 69-65.

Webb picked up his fourth foul with 6:05 showing and took a seat on the bench 30 seconds later, when he fouled William Smith on the arm for his fifth.

But the damage was already done. State Fair kept the Eagles at bay the rest of the way and packed home the victory with 10 straight free throws in the last three minutes.

"I thought we worked the ball much better inside," said Barton after the game. "We still made some mistakes, especially defensively, but we slowed things down a little in the second half and tried to attack inside," he added.

Barton was especially happy with his team's performance midway through the second half, when the Roadrunners found themselves trailing by 11 points.

"We didn't lose our pose at those points... if we had, we would have probably come out on the other end of the scoreboard," he concluded.

Robert Morris, who led at the half, 40-36, was paced in the scoring column by Humbles, the only returning starter from last year's 23-10 team. The 5-9 backcourt ace from Peoria, Ill., pumped in 20. Smith followed with 18.

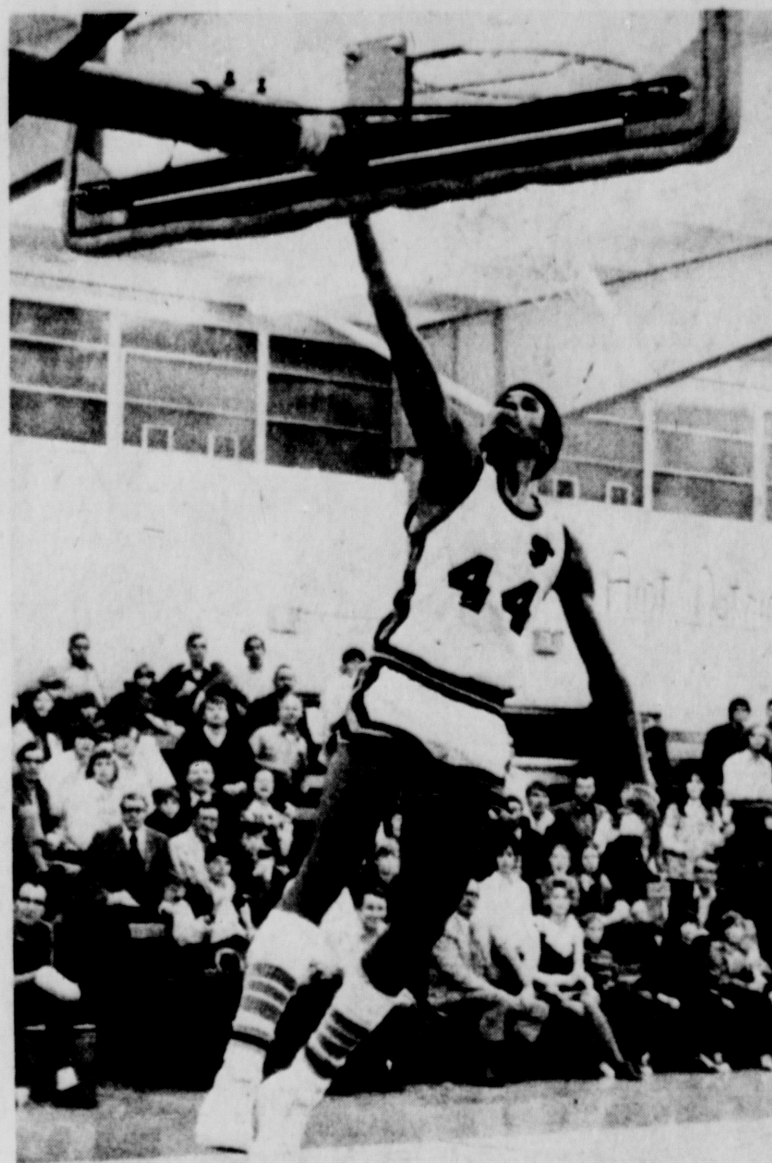

The Roadrunners will take to the road for the first time this season this weekend at the Mineral Area Classic in Flat River, Friday night. State Fair meets Lincoln Land Community College of Springfield, Ill.

Scoring

State Fair (85) — Jerry Bybee 9-0-2, Jack Easley 5-7-3, Stan McNeill 11-0-5, Charles Shell 7-2-4, Billy Townes 1-2-1, Colles Webb 11-4-5. Totals 35-15-20.

Robert Morris (75) — James Cloud 6-2-3, Zack Crutchfield 1-0-3, Rick Homan 2-0-0, Mike Humbles 9-2-5, Rick Ramsey 3-1-5, Rus Ramsey 0-0-1, William Scott 7-4-4, Mark Taylor 2-2-2, Ron Woodside 1-2-1. Totals 31-13-24.

State Fair 36 49-85
Robert Morris 40 35-75

Two the easy way

Colles Webb, who celebrated his 21st birthday Tuesday night by leading the State Fair Community College Roadrunners past Robert Morris College of Carthage, Ill., with 26 points, guides home an easy second-half layup.

Southeast Conference showdown

Thanksgiving weekend opens big with clash between Tide, LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — "Every week it seems like someone has asked me about Alabama," says Coach Charles McClendon of seventh-ranked Louisiana State.

"Well, this week I can answer them," he added.

And, McClendon's answer on the eve of a Thanksgiving night showdown with the No. 2 Crimson Tide for the Southeastern Conference football crown is, "I think they are the best team in America."

The two undefeated Southern powers, among a handful of teams retaining a shot at the mythical national championship, will square off with depth-laden squads at 6:35 p.m., EST Thursday in a nationally televised (ABC) game that is expected to lure a capacity crowd of 67,510 into Tiger Stadium.

An Alabama victory — and the Tide is favored by two touchdowns — would be the 500th triumph in the school's history, making it only the eighth college team ever to attain that milestone. The others include a quartet of Ivy League teams that were playing before Alabama started the game — Yale, Princeton, Harvard and Pennsylvania — plus Michigan, Notre Dame and Texas.

"We've made news this year by playing a lot of people," draws Paul "Bear" Bryant, the crusty Tide coach who has a glittering 229-69-16 in 29 years.

The Tide is gunning for an unprecedented third straight outright SEC championship, although Alabama and Tennessee each put together a trio of conference titles, one of which was shared with another team.

Alabama has won 11 conference titles, LSU five. The Tide claimed national crowns under Bryant in 1961, 1964 and 1965.

LSU ranks No. 1 in the SEC in rushing defense, yielding 129 yards per game, and Alabama is second with 131. Linebacker Warren Capone and tackle Steve Cassidy spearheaded the Bengal defense and linebacker Woodrow Lowe, called by Bryant another LeeRoy Jordan, and tackle Mike Raines spark the Tide defenders.

In other Thanksgiving day games, Air Force is at Notre Dame, Texas meets Texas A&M, Ohio University travels to Marshall and Utah State is at Southern Mississippi.

Notre Dame, fifth ranked in the Associated Press poll and bound for the Sugar Bowl against Alabama, is heavily favored to run its season record to 9-0. But the Irish first will have to shake out the cobwebs of 12 days of idleness since their 31-10 victory over Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, the surprising Falcons, who won their past five games, come into the contest with only four days' rest after beating Arizona 27-26.

The 11th-ranked Texas Longhorns go into their contest with the Aggies as two-touchdown favorites. The Longhorns, 7-2, already have clinched at least a tie for the Southwest Conference title and a host berth in the Cotton Bowl opposite Nebraska.

Smithton rolls over Lincoln Cardinals

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SMITHTON — Rusty Templemire got a rest, but it didn't slow the Smithton Tigers in their Kaysinger Conference opener with Lincoln here Tuesday night, as the Tigers rolled to a 74-45 victory.

Templemire, the league's top rebounder last season who suffered an ankle injury in last week's league tournament at Lincoln, rested the entire game.

"He can play, but I didn't want to risk the possibility of any further injury," said first-year coach Steve Hunter, who watched his team chalk up victory number five on the year.

Smithton bolted to a quick lead and was never threatened in the contest. The Tigers led 21-6 as play entered the second period; they were in command by 20, 38-18, when the first half closed.

Four players reached double figures for the winners. Gene Anderson, a 5-10 junior, found the range for 22 points, many of which were over the top of Lincoln's first-half zone. Jay Teter pumped in 19, while Eric Hopper and Marvin Turner added 12 and 10 in that order.

Sophomore guard Rod Ingram led the Cardinals in the scoring column, tying Anderson for game honors with 22 of his own.

Smithton also won the battle on the boards. Turner pulled down 16 rebounds, followed by Teter, who hauled in 15.

Smithton also captured the junior varsity contest, 29-21; as well as the volleyball game, winning two straight.

Scoring

Smithton (74) — Anderson 22, Teter 19, Hopper 12, Turner 10, White 7, Bremer 2, Siegel 2.

Lincoln (45) — Ingram 22, Nevius 8, Ficken 4, Mullins 4, Terrell 4, Kauble 2, Meuschke 1.

Local team wins Tulsa keg crown

(Democrat-Capital Service)

TULSA, Okla. — The Schlitz Beer team of the Broadway Majors League of Sedalia has captured the team championship at the Third-annual Oil Capital Open here, by seven pins.

The team, sponsored locally by Fechtel Beverage and Sales, Inc., rolled a 3,303 handicap. Eugene Schwab led the way with a 717, followed by Clarence Friedly (610), Lanny Palmer (587), C. J. Palmer (553) and Lewis Heurman (542).

Schwab also captured the all-events crown. Added to his 717 series in the team event was a 616 in the doubles division and a singles series of 573 for a scratch total of 1,896.

More than 200 teams from throughout the Midwest competed in the event, which ran through last weekend.

Late Grems bid pulls up short

By BOB SHACKELFORD
Staff Sports Editor

WARSAW — The Warsaw Wildcats jumped off to a whopping 26-10 lead in the first period against Sedalia Sacred Heart here Tuesday night and then held on for dear life, edging the Gremlins, 76-73.

It was the Kaysinger Conference opener for both clubs.

The setback was the first league loss for Sacred Heart since January 1971. The Gremlins had rung up 20 straight Kaysinger Conference victories, including undefeated slates in 1971-72 and 1972-73. Stover was the last team to defeat Sacred Heart in league play.

The outside shooting of Scott Steffens, and the Hedrick Brothers — Doug and Tim — threatened to take Tom Beer's young Sacred Heart crew out of the game early, as Warsaw hit from outside and scored on fast breaks, time after time. The three accounted for 36 of Warsaw's 43 first-half points.

After an extremely cold first period, Sacred Heart found the range, led by Jeff Brown and Jim McMullin, who brought the Grems back by the half to within 12, 43-31.

The teams battled evenly in the third quarter, but the Warsaw outside barrage quieted down, when the Grems' defense put more pressure outside.

Tim Hedrick picked up his fourth foul with 4:23 remaining in the third period, and Darrell Kinkead (6-3) did likewise with :58 showing, but the 'Cats still led going into the final period, 63-52.

Leading 66-55, with 5:30 showing on the clock, Tim Hedrick was whistled for his fifth foul, the cue the Gremlins were waiting for.

Led by Rick Weller, Randy Johnson and McMullin, the Gremlins roared to within four, 70-66, with 3:12 remaining.

Kinkead fouled out with 2:30 to go, and twice in the last minute and one-half, the surging Grems pushed to within two on baskets by Mark Register and Brown, but could never pull even.

Rob Noland, a 5-10 reserve guard, put the contest out of reach for Warsaw when he stepped to the charity line with :04 showing on the clock and his team leading by only one, 74-73. He hit both ends of a one-and-one to ice the contest.

Warsaw's Doug Hedrick led all scorers for the evening with 19 points, while Weller tallied 17 for Sacred Heart.

The B-team contest also went to Warsaw, 57-42, as Larry Roark tossed in 23 for Warsaw. Mike Bernard was tops for Sacred Heart with 20.

Sacred Heart's volleyball team came out on the win side of the ledger, taking two straight from Warsaw, 16-14 and 15-6.

Scoring

Warsaw (76) — D. Hedrick 19, T. Hedrick 16, Steffens 16, Kinkead 13, Allen 10, Noland 2.

Sacred Heart (73) — Weller 17, McMullin 15, Johnson 14, Brown 13, Register 9, Borchers 3, Lock 2, Warsaw 26 17 20 13-76
Sacred Heart 10 21 21 21-73

Stover falls to Tuscumbia Lions, 87-53

(Democrat-Capital Service)

TUSCUMBIA — Tuscumbia ran its record to 4-0 with an 87-53 win over Stover in non-conference basketball action here Tuesday night, as the Lions placed five players in double figures.

Tom Wright and Monty Graves pumped in 22 and 20 respectively for Tuscumbia in the victory.

Ron Hodges topped the Bulldogs with 20.

In the junior varsity contest, Tuscumbia posted a 52-45 win, behind Bill Patterson, who netted 13.

Stover was led in scoring by Doug Derks' 12 points.

Hope to snap Sooners' wishbone

NU has confidence in defense

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

None of Oklahoma's previous opponents this season has found the way, but Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne figures his defensive coaches "are the best in the country" at devising schemes to snap the Sooners' wishbone.

At this stage it appears the big names of both teams will be ready for the game Friday at Norman that could spell the end of the Big Eight race. Senior noseguard Lucious Selmon sat out most of last week's game against Kansas with a bruised shoulder but was reported to be running at full speed in practice Tuesday.

If Oklahoma wins, the Sooners are conference champs. Otherwise the Cornhuskers will be one-half game behind Oklahoma in the standings and relying on Oklahoma State to beat the conference leaders in the finale at Stillwater, Okla., the following Saturday.

"Whether we've got the people to make the (defensive) scheme work against Oklahoma, we'll have to wait and see," Osborne said.

too, is coming off a loss, an upset by Iowa State.

Coach Al Onofrio had the MU team working indoors Tuesday because of daylong rains, but the defense managed to work on the passing patterns they're expecting from KU quarterback Dave Jaynes, the Big Eight's total offensive leader.

Colorado's hopes of finishing the conference schedule with a 3-4 record if they beat Kansas State at Boulder are complicated by lingering injuries to sophomore quarterbacks Clyde Crutcher and David Williams.

K-State Coach Vince Gibson is letting players not on the traveling squad go home for Thanksgiving. The Wildcats are threatened with a 1-6 conference season.

Oklahoma State's Cowboys travel to Iowa State Saturday. Coach Jim Stanley, who had the welcome news defensive tackle Calvin Miller will play, said, "Our enthusiasm and intent are as good as all year. It's evidence our players are preparing for the stretch run."

Knowles to receive honor

Oakland Athletics' relief pitcher Darold Knowles, who appeared in all seven World Series games last month, has been selected a recipient of the J. Roy Stockton Award by the St. Louis baseball writers. Knowles is a native of Brunswick, Mo., and played in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League program. He will be honored along with Atlanta Braves second baseman Dave Johnson at the city's Baseball Writers Association of America dinner Jan. 21. (UPI)

Balanced Vikes' attack tops Northwest, 84-66

By WARREN RIPLEY
Staff Sports Writer

LaMONTE — LaMonte's balanced scoring attack plus a superb all-around effort by senior forward Donnie Hittner, gave LaMonte a convincing victory over the Northwest Mustangs here Tuesday night in a Kaysinger Conference match-up, 84-66.

Hittner, a second-year starter, scored 18 points pulled down 10 rebounds and stole the ball five times, for one of his finest efforts ever.

Glyn Bennett, Rick Jones, Larry Whitworth and Tommy Hughes all scored in double figures to assist Hittner in that department.

Kerry Schroeder and Alan Meyer scored big for the Mustangs with 18 and 17 respectively.

The Vikings hit seven of their first eight field goal attempts in the opening period to give them an early 14-4 edge, which they never relinquished.

Northwest concentrated mainly on trying to stop

Bennett, with a variety of defenses.

The Mustangs opened with a zone with an emphasis on stopping Bennett from penetrating, followed by a box-and-one. But the Vikings showed that there are other shooters on the team.

Both Hittner and Whitworth scored heavily in the opening period, which saw the Norsemen bolt to a 25-12 lead.

LaMonte increased that lead to 47-25 by the half and was never seriously threatened, as their full-court press harassed the Mustangs into several errors.

LaMonte shot 58 per cent from the field and an even 50 per cent for the game.

Northwest got its share of shots but was cold, hitting only 30 per cent in the opening half.

"I am pleased that we showed some scoring balance and that our free throw shooting (12-16) improved," said LaMonte coach Larry Ficken. "I still don't feel that we are playing the best game we have played," he added. "If we continue to show improvement we'll be able to play with the bigger teams in the conference," Ficken concluded.

The Vikings increased their season slate to a 3-2 mark. Northwest is still looking for its first win losing four straight.

Northwest did avenge themselves a little by overwhelming the Vikings in the junior varsity game. The Mustangs won convincingly, 52-30. At the end of the contest both teams had only four players on the floor.

LaMonte's girls came from behind twice to topple a strong Northwest squad two games to none in the power volleyball match-up.

In the first game LaMonte came back from a 14-9 deficit to squeeze out a 16-14 decision.

The Vikings also won the next game 15-7.

Pete Rose named MVP in the NL

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rose, the Cincinnati Reds' irrepressible left fielder, was named the National League's Most Valuable Player for 1973 today by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Nicknamed "Charley Hustle" for his all-out, aggressive baseball style, the Reds' dynamic player won the MVP prize in a close battle with Pittsburgh Pirates slugger Willie Stargell.

Rose, who hit .338 this year in leading the National League in batting for the third time in his career, received 12 votes for first place and a total of 274 points.

Stargell, the league leader in home runs with 44 and runs batted in with 119, collected 10 first-place votes and 250 points.

It was the tightest MVP NL race since 1969, when Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants edged Tom Seaver of the New York Mets by 22 points.

Rose and Stargell were the only players named on all 24 ballots cast by the BBWAA.

Montrose wins sixth straight

MONTROSE — The Montrose Bluejays ran their season's victory string to six at home Tuesday night with a 7-31 win over Chilhowee.

It was the second victory against no losses in Golden Valley Conference play for Montrose, which was led in scoring by Ken Schuessler's 24.

Also in double figures for the Bluejays were Dennis Mayer, 12; and Jerry Vogel, 10.

None of Chilhowee's players reached double figures. Montrose also won the junior varsity contest, 30-16.

Scoring — Schuessler 24, D. Mayer 12, Vogel 10, Strope 9, Jurgensmeyer 8, S. Mayer 6, K. Cook 4, D. Cook 2, Engeman 2.

Chilhowee (31) — Anstine 9, Lankford 8, Byers 6, Carder 3, Scofield 3, Bryan 2.

committee, which consisted of two writers from each league city.

Two other players who each received one first-place vote finished third and fourth in the balloting — San Francisco outfielder Bobby Bonds and Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan. Bonds collected 174 points, and Morgan, one of four Reds in the top 10, collected 102 points.

Montreal relief ace Mike Marshall, who finished second to Seaver in this year's Cy Young Award voting, completed the top five with 93 points.

Others in the top 10 were Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals, with 65 points; Cincinnati's Tony Perez, 59; Seaver, 57; Ken Singleton of the Montreal Expos, 52; and Cincinnati's Johnny Bench, 41, last year's MVP.

Over-the-Hill Gang dumps Turley Bros.

The Over-the-Hill Gang defeated cross-town Sedalia rival Turley Brothers, 120-88 in men's independent basketball action Tuesday night at Sacred Heart High School.

Mike Wharton and Jeff Karigan led the attack for the winners with 26 and 24 points respectively.

Principia moves into semifinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bill Kleins' 18 points led Principia to a 66-62 win over Greenville during a match between two small Illinois colleges in the Spartan Thanksgiving Holiday basketball tournament Tuesday night.

In a consolation game, Concordia Seminary's Dan Flaxbart scored 17 points to lead the Preachers to a 72-51 win over Sanford Brown. Both colleges are located in St. Louis.

The tournament resumes Friday with host Missouri Baptist facing Principia and McKendree College of Lebanon, Ill., meeting Westminster College of Fulton, Mo.

In Friday's consolation game, Greenville will play Harris Teachers College of St. Louis.

The tourney champ will be decided Saturday night.

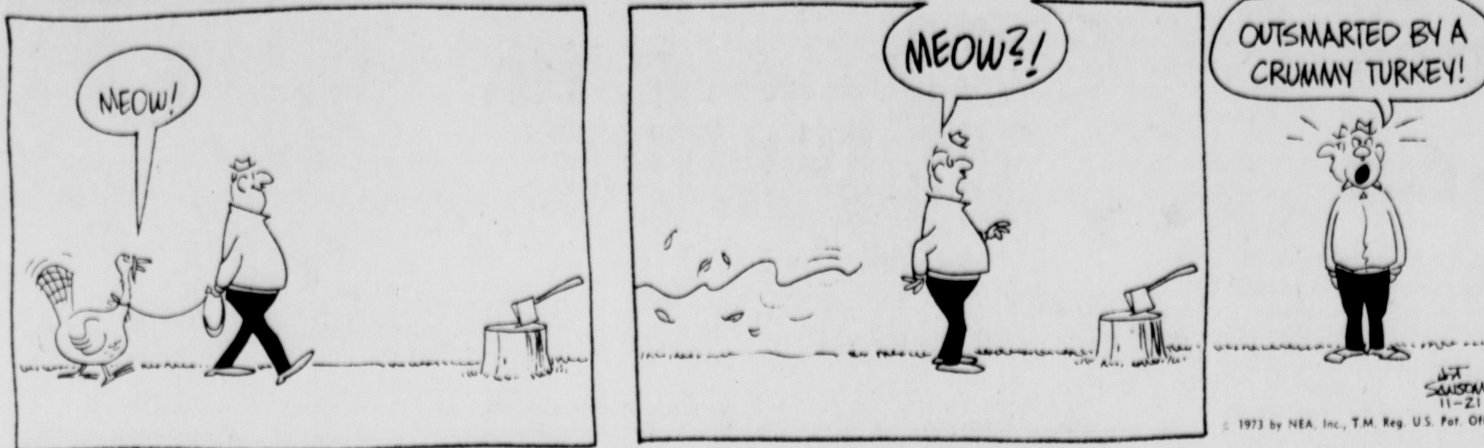

Tuesday—a marked decrease in the deer harvest from the first two days that apparently was a result of statewide inclement weather.

The third day figure made the count since the opening of the gun season 15,419 deer killed. This is 3,492 more than the number killed during the hunting season's first three days in 1972.

After West opens a heart the ordinary declarer is likely to remark, "Partner, we didn't bid enough."

The very careful declarer will review the bidding and come to the conclusion that there is a good chance to find both the diamond and spade suit breaking 4-1. In that case, if he simply tries to draw trumps he is likely to wind up one or two tricks short at his game contract. Now let's look at the various ways to safeguard the contract. Suppose East leads a club or a second heart at trick two. In that case the safety play is to duck one trump. This will cost a trick or tricks if trumps break 3-2, but it will take care of a 4-1 break.

Suppose East makes the brilliant return of his singleton diamond. How should South play the hand against this defense?

He goes up with his diamond queen; leads a high trump and continues with a low trump. If trumps break 3-2 there will be only one trump out against him. If a diamond is led and ruffed it will be the third and last defensive trick. If the diamond is not ruffed South just plays more diamonds until someone does ruff.

Actually, trumps break 4-1. If the man with four trumps started with two diamonds he can lead a second diamond and fix declarer's wagon, but players just aren't that good. The diamond lead almost had to be a singleton and now a second diamond can't be played.

Does work ability end at age 65?

By Tom Tiede
WASHINGTON — Gandhi was 78 when he led the struggle for India's independence. Disraeli was prime minister of England at 76. Clemenceau was 75 when France called him during World War I. Webster was 70 when he wrote the American Dictionary of English Language. Grandma Moses did not begin painting until she was 72. Learned Hand was on the bench at 79, and Pablo Casals, now in the ninth decade of his life, is still making music for the world.

Who was it that said ability ended at 65? Probably Otto von Bismarck, who, after organizing the German Empire, established a mandatory retirement age for his countrymen. (He, by the way, was excluded; he did not leave office until 75).

Bismarck, of course, operated in an age when longevity meant something different than today. His gesture was entirely humanitarian. Yet a century later, though both age and occupation have taken on new significance, the United States and much of the industrialized world still follow the Bismarck example. Sixty-five, sometimes earlier, is by law the age when workers are told their services are no longer required.

Actually, the milestone is not usually so harsh as this. Rather, an exiting employee is told that he's "earned his rest." Then comes the gold watch, maybe a party and everybody wishes the old chap happiness before they get back to running the mill.

To a large extent Americans have bought the retirement laws without objection, and in fact with pleasure. Those in jobs requiring little creativity, or jobs where physical stamina is necessary, look forward to retirement — at least until it comes. "I can't wait to get up and just go fishin'."

But there are others, probably a minority, for whom retirement is like a sentence of death. Indeed, the metaphor is not outlandish. Geriatric authorities say that when some people are forced to leave their jobs, told by society they can no longer perform, the drop-out is the first step to the grave.

Many of these forced retirees do restructure their lives, certainly, and find new interests or outlets; but many others, as anthropologist Margaret Mead says, "are like the admiral who can't, in retirement, find a substitute for the fleet."

But though the problem has been well known for years it is only recently gaining serious attention. A number of civil libertarians, senior citizen groups and geriatric students are talking now about changing the system.

"Mandatory retirement," says Dr. Eric Pfeiffer of Duke University's Medical School, "is just not very bright." More than that, says a spokesman for the American Association of Retired Persons: "It's clearly discriminatory. Forced retirement is outdated."

The courts, however, have not agreed. The one big case which has been tested, that involving noted philosopher Paul Weiss, was not successful. Weiss, now 72, says he had been offered the Albert Schweitzer chair on humanities at Fordham University in New York. "But there was a delay and in the end they said they didn't want me." Actually it was the state of New York which nixed the Weiss appointment — because, as he and his lawyers grumble, he was a few years too old.

Weiss sued and lost. A federal district court said that his denial was "not Constitutionally infirm." A court of appeals upheld the decision. The Supreme Court, giving no reason, as is its policy, refused to hear the matter. (Five of the justices are in their 60s, William Douglas is 75).

Weiss, of course, still believes the courts were wrong. He says the idea of retirement is fine for people who want it, he says those people should be allowed to retire at a fixed age. "But retirement should be based on an individual rather than a wholesale basis. Why should I be denied employment if I want it and can handle it?" Under these conditions, he argues, denying him employment because of age is little different from denying blacks employment because of color.

Actually, Weiss is not out in the cold. When Fordham refused him, Catholic University hired him for a "special" post. He says he's carrying a stiff teaching load, has two books at the printers and is writing two more. "I may not have as many ideas popping out today, but the ones I have are good." He says he's not slowed down and still works "all day long."

To be sure, Weiss could handle the Schweitzer chair or any other. So too could many people retiring today work on into their 70s with no loss of production or strain. In fact, numerous studies have disproved the image of older workers as falling asleep at their desks, or ever ready for a coronary when the boss is pushing something. To the contrary: experts say older people, being less prone to distraction, are often better workers than the young, and certainly more experienced.

Yet a change in the retirement laws does not appear an immediate possibility. American business has operated too long under the out-at-65 principle. The older fellows, for one thing, earn larger salaries than their younger replacements.

But critics of the status quo are not giving up. "Weiss has started something that can't stop," says a lawyer familiar with his case. "There'll be another test, and another, and a thousand more. You just can't kick the old people around anymore."

FBI spokesman ordered not to discuss Rebozo contact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite an oft-stated policy of candor, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley says the agency will tell the public nothing about a Miami FBI agent's contacts with President Nixon's friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Kelley directed Tuesday that the agency refuse answers to several key questions which could either support or contradict an account Nixon has given of a group of Republican congressmen.

At Kelley's order, FBI spokesmen say they will not answer the questions because of the confidentiality of a Senate Watergate committee staff interview with the agent, Kenneth W. Whittaker, who is in charge of the Miami office.

But Robert Franck, assistant FBI director in charge of the external affairs division, said the committee had not requested the FBI to keep silent about Whittaker's controls with Rebozo.

W. Hall Smith, a spokesman for committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., said he was amazed that the FBI would cite the committee staff interview as a reason for refusing to answer questions about the situation.

Franck said the fact that Nixon himself first mentioned the episode does not alter Kelley's decision for secrecy.

At a Friday meeting with the congressmen, Nixon spoke about the $100,000 political contribution given to Rebozo for the Nixon campaign by industrialist Howard Hughes. Rebozo has said he received the money in 1970 and kept it in a safe deposit box until returning it last June.

Questions have arisen about whether the money Rebozo returned was the same cash he received, or whether the sum initially received might have been used in some way before it was returned.

Nixon told the congressmen that Rebozo "had the FBI check it out," according to Rep. Charles W. Whalen, R-Ohio, who took notes on the session.

Nixon said the FBI took fingerprints from the currency and checked the serial numbers of the bills, Whalen told a reporter. "He left the implication that the serial numbers checked with the same money received two years earlier, but he didn't say that," the congressmen reported.

In Tuesday editions, the New York Times identified Whittaker as the agent involved in the episode and described him as a personal friend of Rebozo.

The Times reported that Whittaker has told superiors that in response to Rebozo's request, he informed Rebozo he could not verify that the cash returned was identical to the cash received.

Whalen questioned why the FBI was involved. "In the first place, what's the FBI doing there? Under whose authority?" he asked.

Newsman put the same question to FBI spokesmen who refused comment.

Camdenton school bond issue passed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
School bond elections in Jefferson City and Camdenton received substantial margins of support Tuesday.

Patrons of the Jefferson City School District voted 2,728-154 in favor of a $2.2 million bond issue that will finance construction of an area vocational-technical high school.

At Camdenton, those in Camden County R-3 School District passed a $695,000 bond issue by 802-139.

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
ATHENS (AP) — President George Papadopoulos' use of tanks and troops to quell student-sparked rioting demonstrated the dominant role the army still plays in the affairs of Greece.

One previous precedent was set in 1967 when the army toppled the parliamentary democracy, bringing the then-Col. Papadopoulos to power. Observers say only a counter-coup by the army could dislodge him. And there are no signs of that happening.

"They were scared this time so they called in the troops," said a politician who was prominent before the coup. "It was a sign of panic."

One theory circulating here says Papadopoulos brought in the army during the riots last week partly for fear of losing control of it if he let it stand idle during the disturbances. But other views hold that if the strongman president hadn't moved to crush the protests, the rioters would have had time to marshal more support for bringing down the government.

Students were prominent among the rioters. But George Mavros, an ex-Cabinet minister who was put under house arrest Tuesday night, said it was the additional support the students gained that led to the stiff reaction by the government.

Mavros was arrested along with another former cabinet minister John Zigidis and Panayotis Canelopoulos, 71, the premier of the government that Papadopoulos toppled. The government rounded up 46 more dissidents in the capital, bringing the number in custody to 250, and said all schools of higher learning would be closed until Dec. 10.

Students had staged numerous protests earlier this year, beginning with purely academic grievances, but stood alone and were silenced by arrests and a government decree drafting them into the army.

New outbursts arose after Nov. 4, when clashes took place between police and mourners attending a memorial service for the popular George Papadopoulos, the former liberal premier. The sentencing of five persons in connection with the disturbances led to a four-day sit-in at the Athens Polytechnic Institute.

The sit-in leaders first called for an end to political trials and for academic freedom. But the demands became mixed with calls for the ouster of Papadopoulos, immediate elections and

Sunday gas station closings considered

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The administration has considered forcing gasoline stations to close on Sundays because of the fuel shortage. Republican governors have been told.

John A. Love, President Nixon's energy adviser, was asked Tuesday about a report that this might be ordered, and Love replied, "This has been considered as a possibility."

However, Love told a meeting of the Republican Governors Association: "The first necessary step is that the people of the United States have to realize that this thing is for real. Unless they do have that understanding, they can't move to the solutions that are available to us."

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton told the governors $30 million worth of television time has been made available to make Americans aware of the seriousness of the energy problem "and our campaign will start during the Thanksgiving day football games."

"It's going to be the greatest problem we've ever faced, other than wartime," Love said. "Believe me, it's a new world. It's going to be with us for a while."

He said because of the time needed to complete the Alaska pipeline and to develop new energy sources, it will take three years or longer for the nation to work itself out of the fuel shortage.

Love said the problem basically is growing demand for petroleum, compounded by the cutoff of Arab oil as a result of the Middle East war.

Both Love and Morton said gas rationing should be considered only if voluntary efforts and the current allocation program for diesel oil and heating oil fail.
